¹ In 2023, Wiley fired the editor of Journal of Political Philosophy, which prompted the associate editors and editorial board to resign en masse. A petition garnered more than 1,000 signatures from political theorists and philosophers, committing them to boycotting JPP until the incumbent editorial team was restored. This demand was never met, and the former editors of JPP, together with the former editorial board, founded a successor journal, Political Philosophy. As of September 2024, Wiley still hasn't found replacement editors for JPP.
